CULTURE AT WORK

A gap in the coaching industry

Since the early 2000s, the concept of coaching has increased dramatically with no signs of slowing down as more professionals of diverse backgrounds become interested in becoming coaches. However, the coach training standards and curricula that are in place globally lack the information, skills, and tools that help individuals make decisions that lead to a more diverse, equitable, and inclusive world.

A gap in workplace inclusion strategies

At the same time, many leaders and organizations that seek to cultivate dynamic, adaptive, and inclusive work cultures are not aware of how a coaching culture can increase employee engagement and revenue growth. As a coach practitioner, I recognized that leaders and organizations could not shift the culture in the right direction without including the coaching skillset in their growth and development plans.

The answer is CoachDiversity Institute

At CoachDiversity, we are committed to innovation at the intersection of coaching and inclusion. Our dynamic programs bring the power of coaching to senior leaders, managers, and inclusion practitioners. We do this by providing customized coaching rosters to organizations, and we train key contributors and teams in the coaching skillset with additional learning outcomes in diversity and inclusion.

Through the CDI symposium, we host the preeminent forum in which practitioners of inclusion and coaching may share their best practices, stay energized, and transform their workplaces toward inclusion.

Thank you for joining us to elevate innovation at the intersection of coaching and inclusion.

Founder and President
WHAT WE DO

CoachDiversity Institute is the world’s only coaching organization, accredited by the International Coach Federation, focused on diversity and inclusion as a mechanism to support true organizational change.

Coach Training Programs
CoachDiversity trains leaders in a variety of organizational roles including top level executives, human resources, training and development, marketing, etc. to become certified as a professional diversity coach. After training with CoachDiversity, your employees will be equipped to design and implement a strategy that creates a culture where all stakeholders are able to contribute and be recognized for their contributions towards a more productive and inclusive workforce.

Training & Development
Our team of certified diversity coaches places great value on teaching new tools and techniques that help leaders think differently about difference and translating these skills into everyday practice. We specialize in the development and training of forward-thinking leaders and their teams who want to be proactive about solving conflicts in the workplace related to diversity, equity, and inclusion. Our teams of certified diversity coaches work with organizations to help uncover sources of contention that may be keeping your teams from performing at optimal levels.
WHY SPONSOR THE COACHDIVERSITY SYMPOSIUM?

Through CoachDiversity Institute’s 2nd annual symposium, “Culture at Work,” we are hosting a premier industry event that will explore the power of company culture and its impact for better or worse on organizational mission, results, and talent management.

Never before has there been an event that holds a spotlight on the use of coaching as a resource to shift workplace culture to meet the demands of rapid demographic shifts, technological advances, and other workplace disruptions of the 21st century.

To meet that challenge, the mission of the symposium is threefold: 1) to encourage the development and sharing of best practices in coaching, diversity and inclusion, and workplace culture, 2) to honor those that are blazing trails at the intersections of coaching and diversity and inclusion, and 3) to create a space for community-building and networking for practitioners in coaching, workplace culture, and diversity and inclusion.

Being a sponsor means that your organization has the opportunity to invest in this unique mission and network with leaders who are innovators and thought leaders in their fields.

Your organization benefits by getting insight into what challenges these leaders and business owners face, and how they approach their work. Your investment will be regained many times over through your ability to directly speak to our attendees, showcase your products, and represent your company through your logo on our website, in collateral, and at the event.

Most of all, by partnering with CoachDiversity Institute, our brand affiliation makes you an “endorsed” vendor to our database of over 3,200 and social media reach of over 2,000 strong and growing. Your organization will be seen as a trusted partner.
